Vineyard

Features of the region's unique terroir include soils of volcanic basalt that offer natural irrigation in the vineyards. Average rainfall is 1,400mm and average altitude of vineyards is 800m. Yields are limited to 12 tonnes per hectare, with strict control rules for traditional method production in the winery.

Viticulture

Geisse are pioneers of Thermal Pest Control (TPC), a method of 'blow-drying' vines which helps to prevent use of pesticides. A family-run business that operates with strong ethical principles, where entire families are employed, live on-site, and receive free accommodation.

Winemaking

Traditional Method. 12-15 months lees ageing.
Residual sugar: approx. 10g/ltr.

Tasting Notes

Enticing aromas of brioche, honeydew, and peach. On the palate, the wine presents a crisp, light-bodied profile, featuring yeasty notes and delicate hints of stone fruit, supported by a mineral backbone.
